

THIMEROSAL ALERT - CHILD VACCINES LINKED TO AUTISM

A chemical compound containing mercury, a substance known to be poisonous and toxic, is being used as a preservative in vaccines for children. This additive is called THIMEROSAL. This substance has and is being injected into generations of American infants. Many children start out normal and healthy; then after a childhood vaccine, they change. It has been recently discovered that symptoms of mercury poisoning mirror autism.

Parents are often discouraged from having additional children under a false assumption that there is some type of genetic problem when in fact it is a poisoning that could have been prevented. This information is based on medical discoveries which have proven toxic levels of mercury exist in children who received vaccinations containing Thimerosal.

If you have a young child or grandchild, question their pediatrician before getting any vaccinations. Ask for Thimerosal-free vaccines for your child. If you have a child who is autistic, please call us. We can and will help!

If you would like to speak with someone concerning Thimerosal, you may discuss your particular situation with an experienced attorney at the EICHEN LEVINSON & CRUTCHLOW LLP by telephone at 732.777.0100, or by contacting us online.
